

OTTERVILLE

(Mrs. Pauline C. Ross)

Miss Glennola Gorman has returned home from a visit with relatives at Strasburg.

Walter Williams of Warrensburg, was a week-end guest in the home of H. H. Everett.

J. M. Bente and family and Miss Mattie Belle Hupp, motored to Green Ridge Sunday for a visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Diefendorf and small son of Columbia, arrived here Friday for a short visit with Mr. Diefendorf's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Diefendorf. Mr. Diefendorf is continuing his studies at the University and teaching at Stephens College.

Mrs. S. I. Laws, who underwent a very serious operation at the Christian church hospital in Kansas City about three weeks ago, arrived home Sunday, and is rapidly convalescing.

Misses Lillian Taylor, Laura Eubank, Grace Cordry and Eugene Case and Oscar Gochenour, students at the Teachers' College at Warrensburg, spent the Easter holidays with home folks.

H. D. Case shipped two car loads of stock, consisting of 41 head of butcher cattle and 45 head of hogs, to the St. Louis market Saturday. Mr. Case accompanied the shipment.

Misses Lou Ella Eubank, Agnes Spillers and Edith Berry, three Otterville girls who are making good as teachers, spent the Easter holidays at home.

William, the four-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bishop, who reside 4 miles east of Otterville, was seriously and painfully injured last Friday by being struck in the eye by a large hog tusk, while playing with his six-year old sister, Bernice. The little fellow was taken to Dr. Guy Titaworth at Sedalia. After a thorough examination Dr. Titaworth stated that the ball could be saved, but little hope was entertained for saving his sight.

Miss Ellen Bartlett, member of a pioneer family of Cooper county, died at the residence of her niece, Mrs. Bettie Henderson, 2 miles south east of town, March 27. She was 74 years of age. Death was due to influenza and pneumonia. One sister, Mrs. Bettie Jennings, of Otterville, and one brother, Wm. Bartlett, of Spadra, California, survive. One brother, Edward O. Bartlett, of Otterville, passed away about 4 months ago. Funeral services were held at the home Wednesday, conducted by Rev. Geo. D. Mullendon, of the Presbyterian church. Interment was in the Wear cemetery.
