INDEX OF FREEMAN CEMETERY

Records were copied from tombstones in the Freeman Cemetery, Freeman, Mo. (Cass County) by Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Van Meter and son, Robert Douglas, in July of 1971. The work was done as a "labor of love" for the town of Freeman and to share in the preservation of its history. There were only a few stones and metal markers that were entirely illegible. Every effort has been made to assure accuracy, so if errors are made, we are sorry.

The Van Meter Family

Mrs. Rolf Crockett, Mrs. Charles Kenagy, Mrs. Frank Mickelson, Kim Watson and Shirley Linthicum copied records from the tombstones of the Freeman Cemetery to bring the Index up to July, 1979. The Freeman Cemetery Association does not keep a record of burials. There is a record of lot owners.

HISTORY OF THE FREEMAN CEMETERY

In 1850 the Presbyterian Church, located near Morristown, Missouri, set apart a three acre plot of ground to be used as a cemetery. Later two acres were donated by Eli Jones, adjoining the first three acres. The first burial was Judge Rowden's daughter in 1851. In 1870 and '71 the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad was built and the railroad station was located about one-half mile southeast of the cemetery and a new town called Freeman was started. Practically all of Morristown was moved to Freeman and from that time the Cemetery was known as the Freeman Cemetery.

In the year 1882 the Presbyterian Church, which was located on the original cemetery plot, was moved to Freeman. In 1908 the officers of the Church called a meeting of those persons interested in the welfare of the Freeman Cemetery. At this meeting, the Church stated that if those interested would organize a Freeman Cemetery Association, the Church would turn over the cemetery ground to said Association. The proposition was accepted by those present and the Freeman Cemetery Association was formed, officers elected, and the Association incorporated under the laws of the State of Missouri, Chapter 12, Article II, Revised Statutes of Missouri, year 1899.

At the annual meeting of the Association in 1924 the plan of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Freeman Cemetery Association to establish an Endowment Fund for the permanent maintenance of the cemetery was adopted and the treasurer of the Association was instructed to invest the money from the fund in Government Bonds under the name of Freeman Cemetery Association.

Early officers of the Cemetery Association were, Frank Adams, John K. Ervin, Chas. H. McGill, Chas. W. Richardson and Chas. W. Majors.

Rock and cement gate posts were erected in 1926 and were in memory of Mr. & Mrs. Chas. W. Richardson, W.R. and S.J. Adams, T.D. Ryan, Mr. & Mrs. Chas. H. McGill, and Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Atkinson.

The oldest part of the cemetery lies in the middle part of the center section of the cemetery. There you find stones dating back to 1851. Many stones are very old and the inscriptions are difficult to read; however, others are very plain and easily read. Several unusual and interesting headstones may be found there among the old stones.

For many years services have been held on the Sunday nearest to Decoration Day at the Cemetery. This is a time of friendly gatherings and showing respect and honor to those who are buried here. Flags and flowers are seen throughout the cemetery at this time, showing that the dead are certainly not forgotten.

At the south end of the middle drive, the Freeman Lions Club erected a flagpole in 1970. This was the year of Freeman's 100th year celebration. In 1971 a time capsule was buried in the circle near the flagpole. It will be opened in the year 2000.

Land has been added to the south part of the cemetery and lots for graves were sold immediately. The land was part of the old Dolan farm and was purchased from John Ullery and Lorna Burch in 1974.

Harold Duncan and Harold Bogar maintained the cemetery for many years. Kenneth Duncan is the caretaker now in 1977.

The good care and the quiet beauty with pine and cedar trees along the drives make the Freeman Cemetery an outstanding and respected place in this Community.

The Freeman Cemetery Association, Freeman, Missouri, maintains a plot of the cemetery with names of lot owners. There is no record of burials. In the area of the older part of the cemetery, there are vacant areas which might represent unmarked graves.

As a child, attending Decoration Day Services at Freeman was the only time my sister, Eleanor, and I met many of my mother's family and friends. I remember how we enjoyed George Bennett's music. The musicians were usually seated on a hay frame. The giant trees - Cedars of Lebanon- gave shade for people as they stood for the program.

MORRISTOWN BATTLE SITE

Dear Katharine -

The people who lived in the Morristown Hotel and owned it at the time of its burning told us that victims of the Battle of Morristown were buried on a rise just east of the hotel and back near the hedgerow. Uncle Tom Callaway, whose mother nursed victims of that battle, also told us of their burial there. To my knowledge, there were no headstones there. Others in Freeman area have also told us about this burial ground.

Sincerely,

Betty Taylor
