

Old Settlers Reunion Held At Keytesville, Missouri
[Chariton County]
Saturday, August 8, 1896

Saturday, August 8, 1896 was a most enjoyable day for Chariton county's old settlers, who met in body in the grove on the east side of the public highway, one mile south of Keytesville, one of the most picturesque and suitable spots in the county for an assemblage of this character, and barring the extreme heat, the day was a model one for the old settler's reunion.

At an early hour, carts, buggies, carriages, spring and two-horse wagons began rolling in from every direction. They came on horseback, on foot and on bicycles, and long before the noonday hour the crowd reached far beyond two thousand people, from all parts of the county, who came purposefully to have a general good time, which they undoubtedly did, judging from all outward appearances. The old and the young, alike, enjoyed the occasion in a manner that would fill the mind of the most inadvertant person on the ground with enthusiasm unbounded.

There are a few people in this age who comprehend the many difficulties through which the first settlers of Chariton County passed from 1818, when the first white child, Captain William HERYFORD, now deceased, was born, to the close of the Civil War, in 1865. Those were the times when the warhoop of the wild red men were within earshot of the humble log huts of the precious few whites who inhabited the lonely praries and forests of our county, which is now thickly settled with civilized people from all quarters of the globe. The wild Americans,--the only true Americans were not the only pests the early settlers had to contend with. The woods were full of wolves, panthers, and other vicious beasts, looking for prey, that would as soon tackle a human being as anything that crossed their path. Those were the days of stringent adversity, but notwithstanding all this were many old people at Keytesville on this memorable day, that passed through it all and are still hale and hearty, and looked as though they had stood the test of pioneer life much better than could be expected by an outsider who has read many histories of early western settlements.

As soon as about five hundred people had assembled the order of business was looked to, and A. C. VANDIVER mounted his rostrum, which was made large enough, and furnished with comfortable seats for the weary old pionners of the county, and in a few well chosen words, called the meeting to order, after which, J. A. MERCHANT, of Brunswick, the honored president of the association, came forth and made a few remarks as to organization, etc. He then called to mind the names of those old settlers that were missing from the circle in attendance that day. Among those he named, Captain William HERYFORD, Judge John M. DAVIS and Senator Andrew MACKAY, who have since the meeting of a year ago, passed from earth to "The undiscovered country, from whose bourn no traveler returns," where, it is the wish of their many earthly friends left behind, that they may now be enjoying that peace and happiness that only Heaven's bright shores afford.

Mr. MERCHANT, after a few other remarks, introduced to the audience, which by this time had grown in immensity, Col. W. F. SWITZLER, of Booneville, the Nestor of Missouri editors, who addressed them on topics pertaining to occasions of this kind. Col. SWITZLER was born in Fayette County, Kentucky, and came when very young with his father's family to Howard County, in 1826; studied law in 1840 under the instruction of Judge Abiel LEONARD of Fayette, moved to Columbia in 1841 and took editorial charge of the "Patriot" the same year; was admitted to the bar by Judge John D. LELAND in 1842, and established the "Statesman" in 1843, which he conducted until 1885 when he was appointed chief of the bureau of statistics of the Treasury department. Represented Boone County in the legislature several times; was a member of the Constitutional conventions of 1865 and 1875, and for three of four years has been editor and publisher of the "Democrat" at Boonesville. He is as vigorous in mind and body as a quarter of a century ago.

After Colonel SWITZLER's address, Thomas SHAKELFORD [sic], of Glasgow, was introduced to the crowd, which was eager to hear more of Missouri's early history. Mr. SHACKELFORD's address was short, but to the point, and was greatly enjoyed by everyone who had an opportunity of hearing it. Quite an amount of valuable information was gathered from the speeches of these gifted gentlemen, by the younger people.

The writer has not in any way given one-half the details of this most enjoyable assemblage. The noon hour came at last, and notwithstanding the immense crowd, there were lengthy tables, --fully two hundred feet in length had they been connected, that fairly groaned under the interminable weight of the most delicious repast that was prepared especially for the occasion, that served to appease their appetites. When dinner was announced the tables were soon crowded to their utmost capacity. As soon as one person had satisfied his or her hunger they would drop out of line and leave room for someone else. The dinner was a success in every particular and the management of the edible portion of the program deserves great credit in the manner in which it was carried out.

Shortly after dinner was over, short talks were made by Rev. Willis DOCKERY, of Chillicothe; Lucius SALISBURY, formerly a resident of the county, but now of Kenton, Ohio; Rev. G. W. HYDE, of St. Louis, who was raised in the county, and J. A. MERCHANT, of Brunswick. Each of these gentlemen are well posted on the history of early settlements of Chariton County, and their talks were greatly enjoyed by those interested in the affairs of the darkest days in the annals of the county. Year by year the circle of veterans grows smaller and smaller, and in another quarter of a century they will have all passed to that haven of rest beyond. All that is most vivid and valuable in memory is fast disappearing. It is for this reason, however, that no personal sketch of pioneer settlers, no matter how vividly drawn, or immature in detail, can be classed as the work of mere vain glory. The future will treasure them all the more, and as time goes on they will become more and more objects of real interest and value. The bearing in mind of the pioneer is one that the people of our country will never let fade. Its transmission is a priceless gift to the future.

In this connection will be found below a list of all the old settlers in attendance upon the reunion held at Keytesville, August 8, 1896

Old Settlers Present Over Seventy-Five years of Age

The oldest person present at the reunion August 8, 1896, was "Aunt" Mary GIVENS, born in Mercer County, Kentucky, December 1, 1811. In 1833 "Aunt Mary" accompanied by her husband, Wm. GIVENS, emigrated to this county, locating near Keytesville, where she has since resided. Mr. GIVENS died in 1866. Considering her age, "Aunt Mary" yet enjoys good health and remarkable activity.

To "Uncle" James Guthridge belongs the credit of being the second oldest person at the above reunion. His birth occurred in Fauquier county, Va., March 1, 1813. His residence in Chariton dates from March, 1831. Soon after his arrival at this place, "Uncle Jim" was employed by James KEYTE to carry the mail from Keytesville to Old Chariton, the latter at this time being the county seat. "Uncle Jim" as he is best known to the citizens of Chariton County is an old time Jackson Democrat, who has enjoyed remarkably good health, and to-day looks ten years younger than his comrades.

Wm. STEPHENSON, for 63 years a resident of Chariton County, was born in Mercer County, Ky., August 9, 1819. On coming to Missouri Mr. STEPHENSON settled about six miles north of Keytesville, where he yet resides. His marriage to Ann SMITH, of this county in 1836 was a happy one until her death a few years since.

R. H. GRUBBS, better known as "Uncle Dick" of near Snapp, was born in Virginia, July 18, 1818, and located in the northern part of the county in 1832. In '44 he was married to a Miss Betsey CLARK, of this county, whose death occurred in '66. "Uncle Dick" has since been twice married, the third occurring in July '82, Mrs Elmie TAYLOR becoming his wife.

Mrs. Martha PARNOTT, seven miles north of Keytesville, while a resident of Missouri only 37 years and 32 years in Chariton county, was one among the oldest persons present. Her birth occurred in Hopkins county, Kentucky in 1816.

David D. CALLAHAN, of Brunswick, was born in Campbell County, Virginia, March 18, 1819, and immigrated to Missouri in 1844. Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. CALLAHAN has spent 52 years in the county, he has successfully resisted all tempting opportunities and has always enjoyed single blessedness.

E. B. SMITH, no doubt the oldest physician in the county, was born in Kentucky in 1816 and located in Chariton county in 1837. Mr Smith enjoyed the reunion equally as well as any one present.

P. A. AGEE, of Bowling Green township, was born in Virginia in 1819 and has resided in Chariton county since 1838.

James GILLIAM, of near Keytesville, was born in Virginia in November, 1818, and has resided in Chariton County 43 years. Mr. GILLIAM, for a gentleman of his years, has no complaint as to the health he enjoys. In speaking of the monetary question he says he strongly favors the free and unlimited coinage of silver at 16 to 1, regardless of the action of any other nation.

William W. JONES, one among the oldest county settlers in attendance at the reunion, was born in Virginia, May 10, 1815. He was twice married, first to a Miss PATTERSON, second to Miss CLARKSON, both of whom are long deceased. Mr. JONES came to Missouri in 1839 and settled north of Keytesville, where he resided until a short time ago, when he removed to where he now resides, near Prairie Hill.

Thomas L. VANDIVER was born in Hampshire county, Virginia, September 4, 1819. He was first married January 15, 1850 to Miss Elizabeth HERYFORD, deceased, and second, Nov. 29, 1879 to Miss Eliza STARK, who still lives to brighten his remaining days. Mr. VANDIVER came to Marion County, Missouri, in 1828, and in '49 removed to Chariton County, and settled on a farm near Salisbury, where he has resided ever since.

Charles C. CLIFTON, born in Bellows Falls, Vermont, May 17, 1819, is another old settler worthy of mention in this sketch of Chariton county history. In '52 he came to Missouri and settled on a farm in Muscle Fork township, near where the post office of Mike is now located. In '54 he was married to Miss Margaret BRADSHEAR, of this county, now deceased. He has had his many ups and downs since he emigrated to Chariton county, but still retains good health, and is as spry as many of his younger acquaintances.

Robt. P. CURRIN, one among the oldest of Chariton County's citizens was present at the reunion, shaking the hands of his old comrades of by gone days. He is a native Missourian, having been born in Howard County, August 8, 1819, and was twice married, the first time to Mrs. Mary FREY, of Randolph County, in '50 and the second time in '67 to Susan J. JAMES of Hempstead County, Ark., both of whom have passed away and left him in his dotage to mourn their loss. He now resided on a farm in Keytesville township, but in his earlier days he was a hatter by trade.

Old Settlers Present Over Seventy Years of Age

To Mrs. Margaret C. WATSON, belongs the credit of being the oldest native born citizen of Chariton county present at the reunion at Keytesville in 1896. Mrs. WATSON was born January 15, 1822, and has always resided in the county. In April of 1840 she was united in marriage to George W. SINNET, whose death occurred in 1842. Twelve years later she was united in marriage to George W. WATSON, with whom she now happily resides in the southern part of the county.

Mrs. Frances E. CHRANE, 6 miles north of Keytesville, was among the oldest native born citizens present on this occasion. Her birth occurred near Keytesville, October 6, 1823. On April 22, 1841, she was married to Samuel E. STEPHENSON, one of the early settlers of the county, whose death occurred in 1866. In March of 1884, she was married to Theo F. CHRANE, with whom she now resides at Chraneville. "Uncle Pete" Chrane, as best known in Chariton county, was born in Copenhagen, Denmark, April 9, 1821, but 9 years later emigrated to this county, his father, Benj. F. CHRANE erecting the second house in Keytesville. In 1844 he was united in marriage Miss Sarah J. HANNAH, of Randolph, with whom he happily lived for nearly two score years, until her death, December 25, 1882. Mr. and Mrs. CHRANE now reside upon the old homestead farm at Chraneville enjoying amid peace, plenty and comfort, the pleasures of well spent lives.

B. F. TAYLOR, of Muscle Fork Township, was born in Chemung county, New York, July 29, 1823, and has resided in Chariton County for 29 years. In 1859 he was married to Frances A. CHADWICK, of Illinois, whose death occurred November 9, 1889.

Wm. H. BRUMMALL, for 46 years a Charitonite, was born in Cumberland county, Kentucky, in May of 1822. "Uncle Billy" as nearly everyone knows him, has always been a great admirer of the gentler sex, but so far has failed to find the ideal of his affections.

Robert V. GLENN, of Brunswick Township, was born in Campbell county, Virginia, the 16th of November, 1821, and has resided in Chariton County since 1853. October 12, 1843, he was married to Miss Sarah PEERMAN, whose death occurred in 1866. On the 23rd of December, 1873 he was married to Tibitha P. BELL, her death occurring February 23, 1894.

Another old settler of Chariton county present at the reunion of '96, well and favorably known was Wm. P. ALLEGA, born in Kentucky September 13, 1822, Mr. ALLEGA was married to Louisa NEWTON February 29, 1845, which union was blessed by the birth of 8 children, four now living. Mr. ALLEGA moved to this county in 1837.

J. M. AKERS, born in Virginia IN '23, came to this county in '54, where he has since resided and occupied his time in farming.

Peter M. HEATON, was born in Rappahannock county, Virginia, September 15, 1824. Moved to Missouri in 1841, and to Chariton county in 1851. Was married April 1, 1850 to Matilda GREEN who was born June 15, 1832.

Mrs. Matilda FOSTER was born in Virginia in 1820 and has been a resident of this county a number of years. She is still in good health and will no doubt live to attend several more of the reunions of the old settlers.

James L. VEAL, of near Long's Mill, born March 18, 1822, in Fayette County, Kentucky, was an attendant upon the reunion, looking as hale and hearty as though his youth was still retained. He came to Missouri in 1827, and settled in Chariton County. In 1845, on the 13th day of November he was married to Miss Simmira WOODS, who was born in Howard County April 5, 1852. He is a farmer by occupation.

William HEDRICK, of Westville, one of the oldest native born citizens of Chariton County, first saw the light of day Dec. 27, 1824, and has been a constant resident of the county since his birth. On the 28th day of Decemeber, 1843, he was married to Miss Nancy M. DUVALL, who still lives to cheer him in his declining years. It is the wish of the friends of this aged couple that they may live to attend many more of the annual old settler's reunions.

Erastus BUTLER, who lacks but a few months of being the oldest native of Chariton county, was born near Salisbury, October 18, 1822, and was married to Mary JACKSON, a native of Howard County, in 1853. Mrs. BUTLER was born in 1826, and still lives to brighten a happy home. These old people can look back to the time when Chariton county was termed the wild and wooley West, when the red man roamed the forests, and wolves and other ferocious beasts were numerous.

John NICKERSON, born Jan 13, 1822, in Madison county, Kentucky, came to Missouri in 1835, and removed to Chariton County in 1838, settling on the old homestead where he now resides, three miles south-west of Salisbury. He was twice married; the first time in 1842 to Miss Eliza MCDANIEL, and in 1889 to Louisa J. MONTGOMERY, who still lives. "Uncle John" as he is generally known, enjoys good health, and bids fair to attend more old settler's reunions.

Howard H. RICHARDSON was born in Taswell County, Virginia, Dec. 11, 1824, and came to Missouri and settled in Chariton county near Salisbury in 1830, where he has been a life long resident. Mr. RICHARDSON has stood at the matrimonial altar the second time. The first time July 15, 1851, when he married Louisa C. WRIGHT, who has since died, and the second time April 20, 1859, when he was married to Lizzie M. MINOR, who still lives to make his home bright and happy. His last wife was born March 13, 1831.

Peter G. AGEE was born in Buckingham County, Virginia, April 19, 1825, and removed to Missouri with his parents and settled in Ketyesville township of this county in 1838, where he has resided all these years in single blessedness. He enjoys good health and is as spry as a boy, still hoping the apple of his eye may some day "bob up serenely." Good wishes to him.

Old Settlers of Recent Demise

Among the early pioneer settlers of Chariton County whose memory is kindly cherished by the members of the Old Settler's Association and whose presence is sadly missed at the reunion August 8th, 1896, due to their transition to the great unknown, we note the following:

Hon Wm. HERYFORD, Chariton County's oldest native born citizen, who was born in Salisbury township, April 14th, 1818. Capt. HERYFORD was a very prominent personage in the settlement of this county and led a life of unusual activity. A gentleman of dignified bearing, strict integrity of character and strong benevolence. His death occurred at his home in Salisbury, Dec. 23, 1895, of hiccoughs, after an illness of three weeks.

Judge John M. DAVIS, for seventy years a resident of Chariton county, died at his home in Brunswick April 23, 1896. His birth occurred in Nelson county, Kentucky, Sept. 2, 1817, and at the time of his death was 78 years, 7 months and 21 years of age. Judge DAVIS taught the first school ever taught in Brunswick and in after life occupied many positions of prominence and usefulness in public affairs. In '65 he was admitted to practice law and formed a partnership with Col. C. W. BELL, now of Salisbury. In many respects, Judge DAVIS was a remarkable gentleman; a christian man of untiring industry, vigorous intellect and wonderful memory, he commanded the respect and admiration of all who knew him.

Another gentleman whose recent demise was vividly called to mind by the old settlers present, was Senator Andrew MACKAY, a gentleman of Irish parentage, who was born in the city of Baltimore, Maryland, on the 7th of March, 1821. The memory of this distinguished citizen of early days of Chariton county will long be cherished by a host of old freinds and acquaintances of bygone days.

Notes of Other Settlers Present

Hon. J. C. CRAWLEY, of Keytesville, Chariton county, oldest lawyer now actively engaged in practice of his profession, added to the pleasure of the day by his presence. Mr. CRAWLEY was born in Howard county, Mo., August 8, 1826 and celebrated his 70th birthday by shaking hands with old comrades of days of the long ago. Mr. C. has been practicing law since 1846 and at Keytesville since 1851.

Due to the intense heat of the day, and to his indisposition, Col. Casper W. BELL of Salisbury, was unable to be present at the reunion. Col. BELL is a native of the "Old Dominion" and was born February 2, 1820, of Irish-English decent, and a decendant from two of the oldest families of the south. His residence in Chariton county dates from 1843, when he located at Brunswick and engaged in the practice of law. His absence was observed and very much regretted by his friends of pioneer days present. August 6, 1844 he was married to Miss Leontine EWEN, of Howard County, a lady of culture and refinement, who has travelled the rugged pathway of life as a faithful companion and wife for these fifty-two years.

Abbot H. JACKSON, born in Chariton county April 22, 1834, was among the enthusiastic patriots who celebrated "Missouri Day" at the old settler's reunion August 8, 1896. About 1850, while in the mountains of California, Mr. JACKSON had his feet frozen, which afterwards necessitated amputation. Though his health was poor for some time, it is now good and he maintains a cheery humor. In early days, Mr. JACKSON taught school in this county and his reminiscence of pioneer school days are truly interesting.

Judge Lucius SALISBURY, one of the pioneer settlers and until recently a resident of Chariton county, but now of Kenton, Ohio, accompanied by his most estimable lady, was a very happy guest of the reunion. Judge SALISBURY was born in Vermont, June 11, 1824 and in 1845 settled in Keytesville, engaging in the mercantile business. To his enterprise and unceasing industry now stands the beautiful city of Salisbury, Mo.

Due to the extreme heat, old age and feebleness of body, a good number of old settlers of the county were unable to attend the reunion, yet many were present and from all outward appearance enjoyed the pleasures of the day very much.
