Mrs. Farrell has made her home at Clarence for more than forty years. She has been a loyal and faithful member of the Christian church since childhood.

On Sunday morning, Feb. 17 at eight o'clock she answered the divine summons. As the church bells sounded the call to worship that morning the spirit had ascended the great white throne to worship with the Master and to hear the great angelic chorus burst forth in the universal refrain, "Glory to God in the Highest and on earth peace and good will toward men." Blessed be the name of the Lord.

"Asleep in Jesus"

Grade Matilda Strachan was born in Shelby county, Missouri, June 23, 1884, died February 10, 1908, age 23 years, 7 months and 17 days.

She was united in marriage to Benjamin F. Morris February 8, 1905. She was an affectionate wife, a dutiful daughter and a pious christian and was a devoted member of the M. E. Church. She leaves to mourn her loss a weeping husband, an aged mother, one sister, four brothers and a host of friends. Another bright star has disappeared from our earthly vision to beam with dazzling splendor in the land of eternal day. Although a constant sufferer in the last days of her life, she never murmured for she said she was prepared to meet her Savior. She felt that she was going to Jesus, as He was with her then. Those dying remarks, accompanied as they were by a smile of happiness, told plainly that the Savior was waiting to cord her safely across the stormy Jordan of death into the sweet land of eternal rest. To those who stood around her dying bed many of whom had been her associates in days when she enjoyed health, witnessed a sad scene, the young wife, the daughter, the sister and neighbor, was about to make her exit from this world of sorrow to a world of supreme happiness. No doubt but what she heard sweet music—sweet music, not of this world, but of heaven; and no doubt but that she was happy, supremely happy. To those of her friends who witnessed her death, let us admonish you, one and all, "Be ye also ready" when the summons come, and so live at the parting hour you can say, "I am happy."

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Kimbrell at Bethel in the presence of a large congregation. The loved wife, daughter, sister and friend was consigned to the tomb and with tearful eyes, we thought of the happy family of only a short time ago, and now we look and see the husband with bleeding heart, all his hopes crushed right in the prime of life.

O cruel grave, we cannot see any merciful providence in this—but from the grave we think I heard a spirit voice saying, go dry your tears, I will meet you again when Christ comes.

The sleeping saints blessed they be,
Their earthly labor done,
Their souls to all eternity,
Their works do follow them,
Weep not for her who dieth,
For she sleeps and is at rest,
And the couch whereon she lieth,
Is the green earth's quiet breast.

Milby Randall TimmonsPassed Away June 2

Milby Randall Timmons, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Timmons, born in Clarence, Mo., February 1911. He passed away June 25, at the age of 14 years and 4 months.

His entire life was spent in Clarence where he attended the primary school in which he would have graduated from the grammar school department this last year had his affliction interfered with his attendance upon the same. He was a studious and industrious boy, performing the duties which came to him without hesitation or complaint and leaving his play and amusements to be engaged in after work had been accomplished. He was a worthy example among playmates, not only exercising himself in a commendable way among them, but endeavoring to promote peace and harmony as they engaged in their pleasures and pastimes.

He was well and favorable known to approximately all the people of the town and we have heard more than one give expression to the statement that he was a splendid boy. His attitude and conduct such as to commend itself to the grown people of his acquaintance and he won for himself a place in the hearts of all who knew him that was unusual in its character.

He united with the Methodist church in Clarence last fall, during our revival meeting and became a member of a Sunday school class of 15 boys of about his age which being taught by the pastor of the church. He was regular and punctual in his attendance until affliction made it impossible for him to be present. His preparation of the lesson and his interest in the recitation were marked features of his work in Sunday school, and was with great regret to us when he was unable longer to attend.

But notwithstanding his meek character and his splendid qualities he has been taken from us, and we mourn his going in ways that words cannot express. And we mingle our tears with the grief stricken family and other relatives. But we sorrow not as those who have no hope. Our loss is Heaven's gain, and while we are called upon to deny ourselves the pleasure of his association and companionship, his spirit has been transferred to that heavenly land where he shall bask in the sunlight of God's eternal presence and where his character shall develop and expand in ever increasing beauty and grandeur.

He leaves to mourn his passing his heartbroken father and mother, his two brothers, Max and Kenneth and one sister, Louise, with other relatives and a host of friends.

As an evidence of the high esteem in which he was held, a large congregation assembled at the Methodist church on Saturday afternoon, June 27, where the funeral services were conducted by his pastor, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Maplewood cemetery.
