

LeRoy viewed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Harrison until Saturday, when the pale messenger of death came and took him. We extend our heart-felt sympathy to the bereaved parents and friends, but we boy especially to the will & Him who directs all things well. We should rejoice to know that our sweet child is at rest in that land where there are no parting, no farewell, no tears and no death scenes. But more convincing than we can or dare say is the assurance which we have the consciousness of concerning that he is as perfect there as we can by the help of God make him beyond the grave and what a front satisfaction. He is looking forward to the day when he house seems strangled no more. LeRoy went away. "I do not see him again, nor hear him at night. His little hat hangs on the nail. I never used all day a vacant place at the front door. His playthings are laid by. His dear child left us; we were going to see him go; he is singing songs of joy in paradise we know." But LeRoy lingered for several days of pain. Then God said, "Come up higher." Our loss is LeRoy's gain.

Samuel Harrison. Early Wednesday morning at 2:30 a.m. Samuel Harrison, a man who had come to town that Saturday night, was found to be very ill and had passed away before the physician could be obtained. He had been suffering from the grip and bleed disease for some time. He resided at Bacon Chapel, Rowland, N.C., and was a carpenter by occupation. He was born near Old Fort, Monroe county, May 25, 1865, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Harrison. His wife, Miss Jennie Bragg, died at the Miss Mary Bragg, deathbed, and an excellent lady, his widow, was for many years deceased.

I have written to you at great length concerning the present situation, and I hope you will have time to read it before you leave. It is a very difficult problem, and I am not entirely satisfied with my own solution of it. But I have done my best, and I trust that you will be able to do your duty in accordance with the principles which I have endeavored to instill into your minds.

 10. Which never can be stilled,
 11. And they leave sweetly cell'd her
 12. But always love her more,
 13. We love her, yes, we love her,
 14. And they leave sweetly cell'd her
 15. To the golden gate afar,
 16. A reverent voice said come,
 17. And with calm words unbroken,
 18. She gently entered home,
 19. How softly we do miss her,
 20. No widow longer cap her,
 21. In heaven we hope to meet her,
 22. Who better than she,
 23. Wherein all things well.

Chris McWilliams, 20, will more than likely do his 18 years in prison before he gets the 15 he deserves. But, as far as the public is concerned, he is a scoundrel and deserves to rot in jail.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hartman, their son, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hartman, and their two sons, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hartman, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hartman, III, were the guests of honor at a dinner given by the Sheldene Wood Foundation in their honor at the Hotel Sheldene on Saturday evening.

The dinner was held in the Hotel Sheldene's dining room, and the guests were seated at tables arranged in a large room. The tables were covered with white cloths and decorated with flowers. The chairs were arranged in rows, and the room was filled with the sound of conversation and laughter.

After the dinner, the guests were invited to a reception in the hotel's lobby. There, they were served coffee and cake. The reception was a great success, and the guests enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

Following the reception, the guests were invited to a dance in the hotel's ballroom. The music was provided by a band, and the dancing was excellent. The guests enjoyed the music and the dancing, and the atmosphere was very festive.

The entire event was a great success, and the guests were very pleased with the arrangements. The hotel's management deserves credit for the excellent service and the pleasant atmosphere.
